Meaningful Inclusion: Confronting Bias and Privilege

In this 60-minute watch and reflect module Dr. Jen Newton leads a module discussing implicit bias, privilege, and other topics critical to the pursuit of meaningful inclusion in your school and community. Participants will have opportunities to learn and reflect on their own practice. Additional resources on these topics are available. (Part 1 of 3)

Presuming Competence in Action

This 30-minute watch and reflect module, the second in a series by Dr. Jen Newton, addresses the concepts of inclusion as belonging, what barriers exist that hold us back from true belonging, presuming competence, and how all of these concepts play into the way the law dictates students be educated in the Least Restrictive Environment. (Part 2 of 3)

The Anti-Ableist Classroom

In this 45-minute watch and reflect module, Dr. Jen Newton presents on ableism and anti-ableism, discusses how truly inclusive classroom environments can be supportive of all students, and examines common educational structures that are labeled inclusive, but are often not. (Part 3 of 3)

Sniffing Out Ableism

In this 50-minute watch and reflect module, Jordyn Zimmerman and Sabrina Guerra, two nonspeaking advocates, lead participants in reflection and conversation around examples and nonexamples of ableism, providing suggestions and strategies for creating a more equitable and inclusive culture.

Curricular Units

D.E.A.R. Discussions

Grades Pre-K to 3

This series of lessons is based around a "Drop Everything and Read" concept. It addresses emotional literacy and regulation, empathy skills, and celebrating disability as a form of human diversity. This unit contains 10 lesson plans for 10 picture books by diverse authors featuring a broad array of characters.

AIM for an Inclusive Classroom

Grades 3 to 5

This 9-lesson unit for students in grades 3 to 5 provides essential instruction in empathy and friendship skills. Students explore how to manage their own emotions, how to demonstrate empathy toward others, and how to be a good friend to everyone.

Everyone has a Story

Grades 3 to 5

Co-written with author and professional storyteller Kevin Kling, this unit offers students a chance to explore identity through storytelling. This 10-lesson unit invites students to play with storytelling through different mediums and activities and introduces them to the work of a diverse group of storytellers.

Pricing:

$350 per unit, per school

Unlimited annual access

Each unit includes 8-10 30 minute lessons

Curricular Units (continued)

Camp TNP

Ages 6-12

This program, designed for a setting structured around recreation and play, engages students in learning about friendship, emotional regulation, empathy, and diversity. Camp TNP is a perfect fit for a camp setting or child care program, or a supplement to extracurricular activities. Kids will engage in fun activities that will help teach skills and build community.

Introduction to Disability Studies

Grades 6 to 12

Introduction to Disability Studies takes a deep dive into disability awareness education, disability history, and disability justice. Students learn about disability as a form of human diversity, how to be an aspiring ally, and how to be an includer. The unit's 9 lessons can be paced according to teacher needs, with multiple lessons in a week for a shorter time frame, or stretched out over a longer period.

STEMpathy

Grades 6 to 12

The STEMpathy Club program is designed to empower students to optimize belonging for all. Using the Engineering Design Process and applying what they learn about disability studies and ableism, students work together in an inclusive club or classroom setting and take on a project that will make their school more inclusive from a physical, social or cultural standpoint.

Pricing:

$350 per unit, per school

Unlimited annual access

Each unit includes 8-10 30 minute lessons

Live Webinars

Disability 101

This 60-minute webinar provides the training that school leaders and staff need to build inclusive communities where all students feel a strong sense of belonging. Through a live-virtual presentation and conversation, attendees learn about disability as diversity and how to be an advocate for inclusion and positive social change in their building and district.

Raising Kids Who Include

Designed to follow the Disability 101 webinar, the 60-minute Raising Kids Who Include live-virtual webinar is for anyone in a child's "village," who contributes to their growth and development. Raising Kids Who Include is designed to provide practical, actionable advice and strategies for supporting kids as they develop the beliefs and skills needed to meaningfully include and be included.

Pricing:

$1,000 per webinar
Up to 250 participants
